Educational Goals:

To familiarize healthcare professionals with topics of readiness and response to large scale emergencies, such as pandemics, natural disasters and terrorist attacks.

Target Audience:

Primary care physicians and internists; RN's; all medical professionals involved with the delivery of emergency care; public health officials; emergency, safety, and corporate medical unit personnel; and government and community leaders and representatives.

Accreditation:

The Medical Society of the State of New York (MSSNY) accredits institutions for the provision of continuing medical education for physicians. New York Downtown Hospital, as an accredited provider, hereby designates this program for 6 category I continuing medical education credits for AMA/PRA™. Each physician may claim credit according to his/her participation.

New York Downtown Hospital is an approved provider of continuing education by the New York State Nurses Association, which is accredited as an approver of continuing nursing education by the American Nurses Credentialing Center's Commission on Accreditation and designates this program for 5.8 contact hours.

Acknowledgement of Support:

We are most grateful to the Goldman Sachs Group for the contribution of their educational center for the presentation of this Symposium.
